

Photo: Construction of the subsurface dam

-Construction of the subsurface dam-

The subsurface dam was constructed by excavating the aquifer layer up to the basement rock, and building a dam body. The pressed part in the photo is the dam body. Parallel to the construction of the dam body, the excavated space of both the upstream and downstream sides of it was backfilled. Finally, the dam body was completely buried under ground.