

Supporting “Effective” Adaptation in the Pacific

Dr Robert Kay

Measurement, Reporting and Verification (MRV) for Mitigation and, Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) for Adaptation in the Asia-Pacific Region

22nd Asia-Pacific Seminar on Climate Change (Hanoi, Vietnam)

How can we be effective?

1. Use 'traditional' M&E approaches – think through the impact chain.
2. Look through 'climate change lens' at traditional M&E approaches
3. Develop adaptation effectiveness pathway tailored to specific contexts

Traditional M&E Approaches?

- Mature, well understood approaches
- Recognised range of challenges in Pacific
- See Mei Lin Harley (SPC) presentation

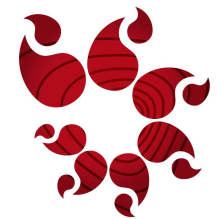

Climate Change Lens

Perspectives of adaptation effectiveness

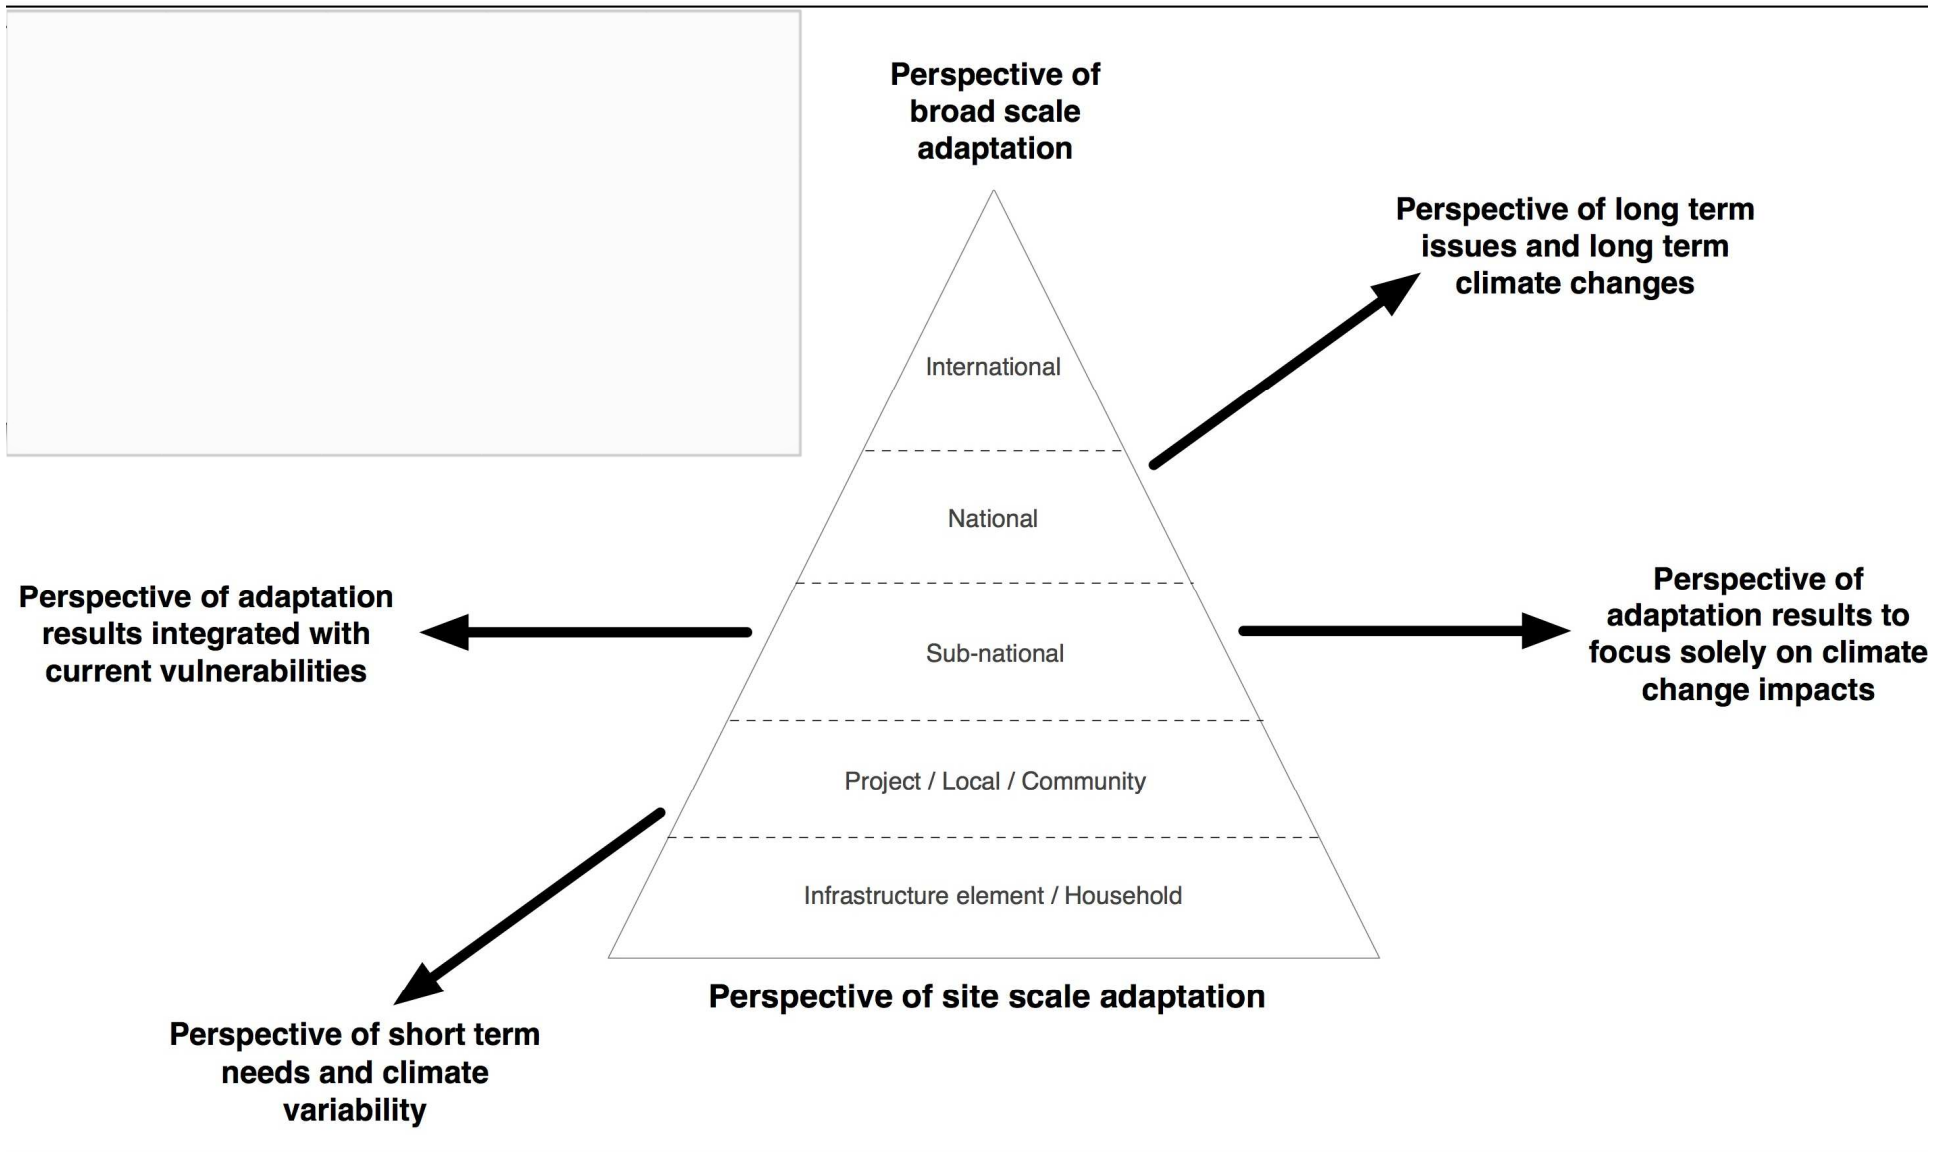

1. Results orientation
2. Spatial considerations
3. Temporal considerations
4. Decision context ('it depends')

The “it depends” factor

- UK Climate Impacts Programme ‘AdaptME’ Toolkit:
- “AdaptME does not seek to provide a comprehensive evaluation framework as it is clear that there is no one-size-fits-all approach to evaluating adaptation.”
- Embraced this approach for building tools to assess Ecosystem Based Adaptation Effectiveness for UNEP

Recognizing transition in Pacific

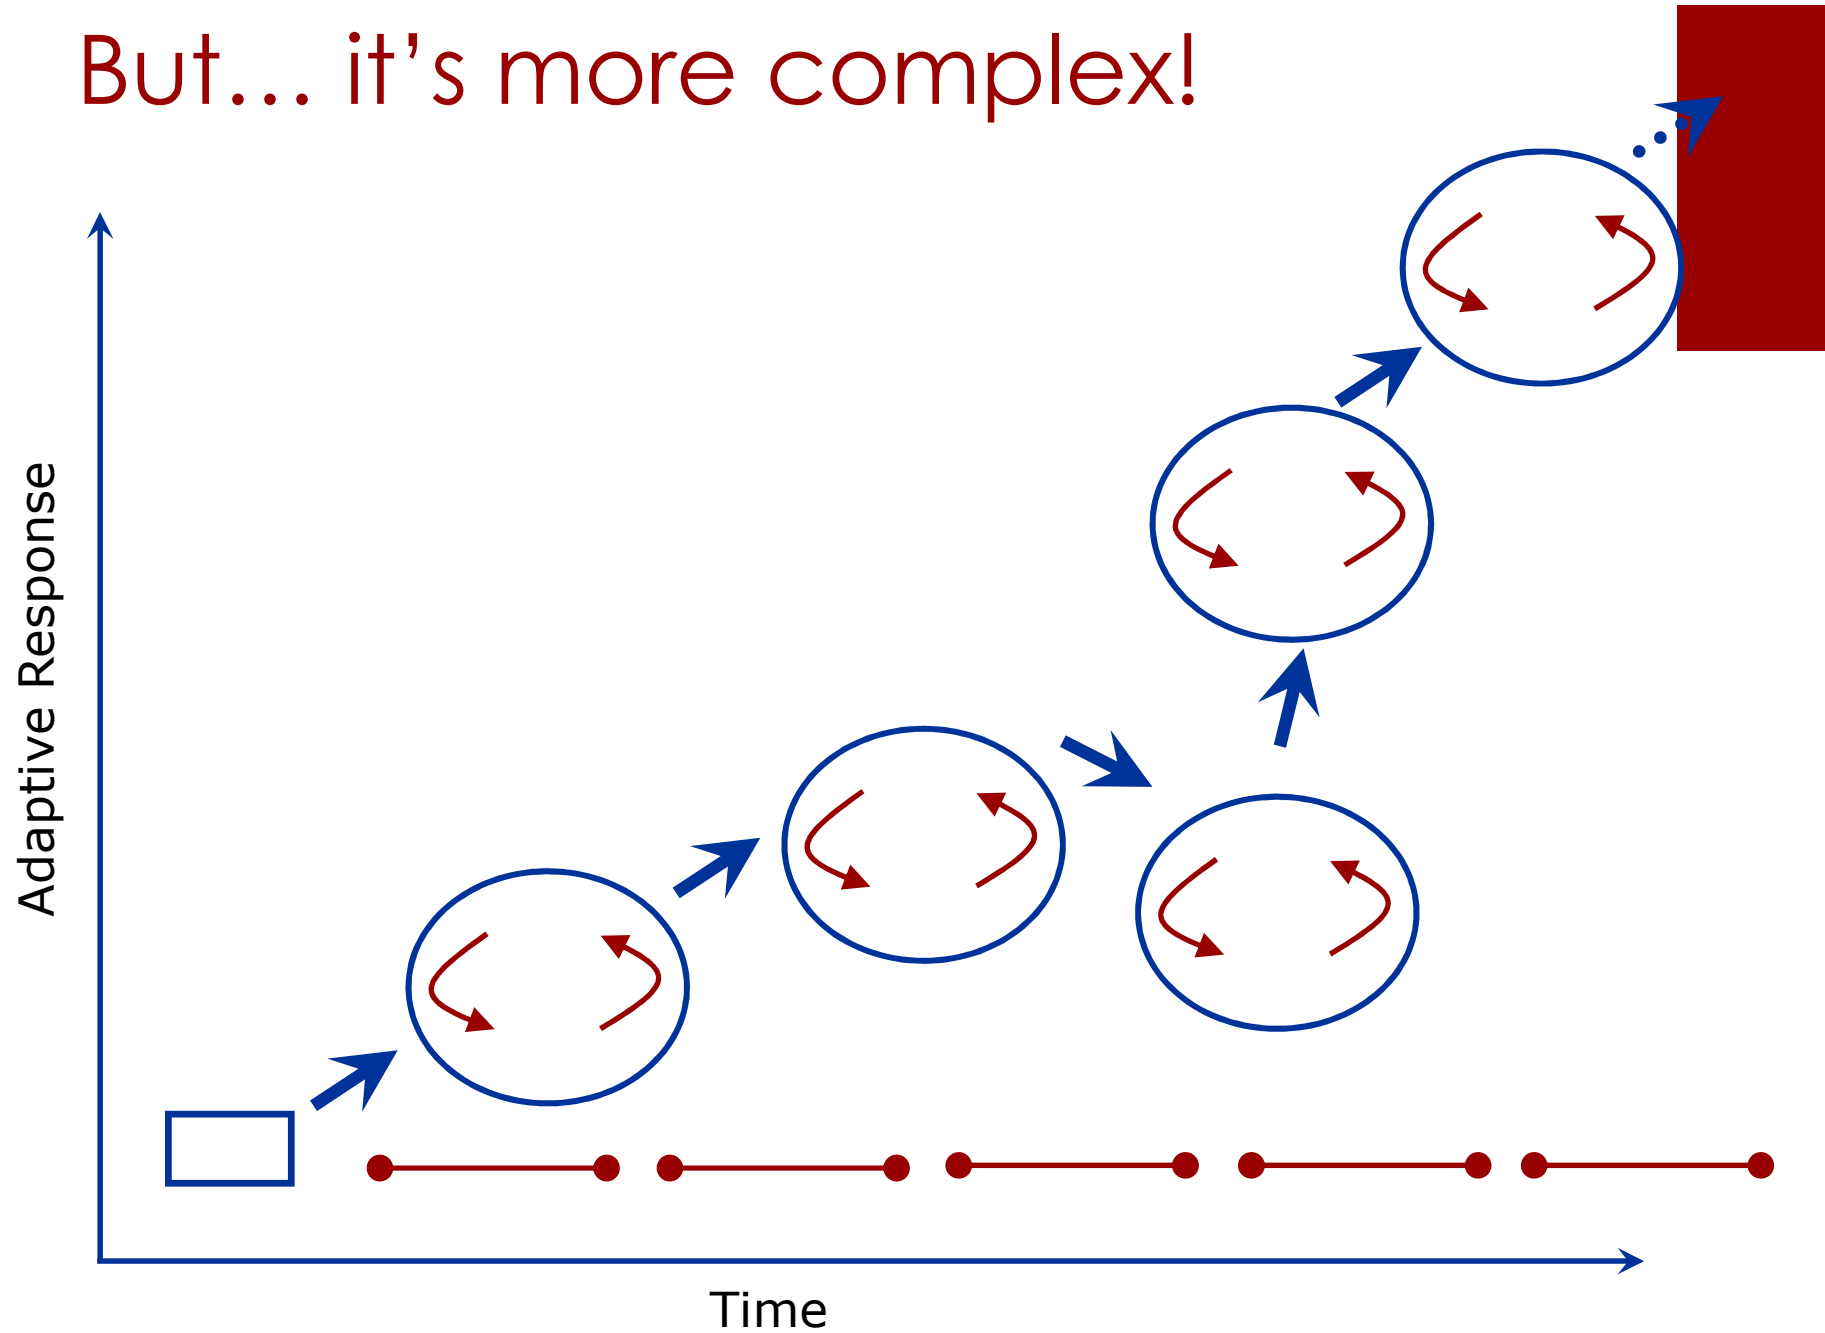

1. From 'projectized' to 'mainstreamed' adaptation
2. Ongoing severe capacity constraints
3. Overwhelming adaptation need
4. Now a critical period of transition – for which adaptation M&E/effectiveness critical

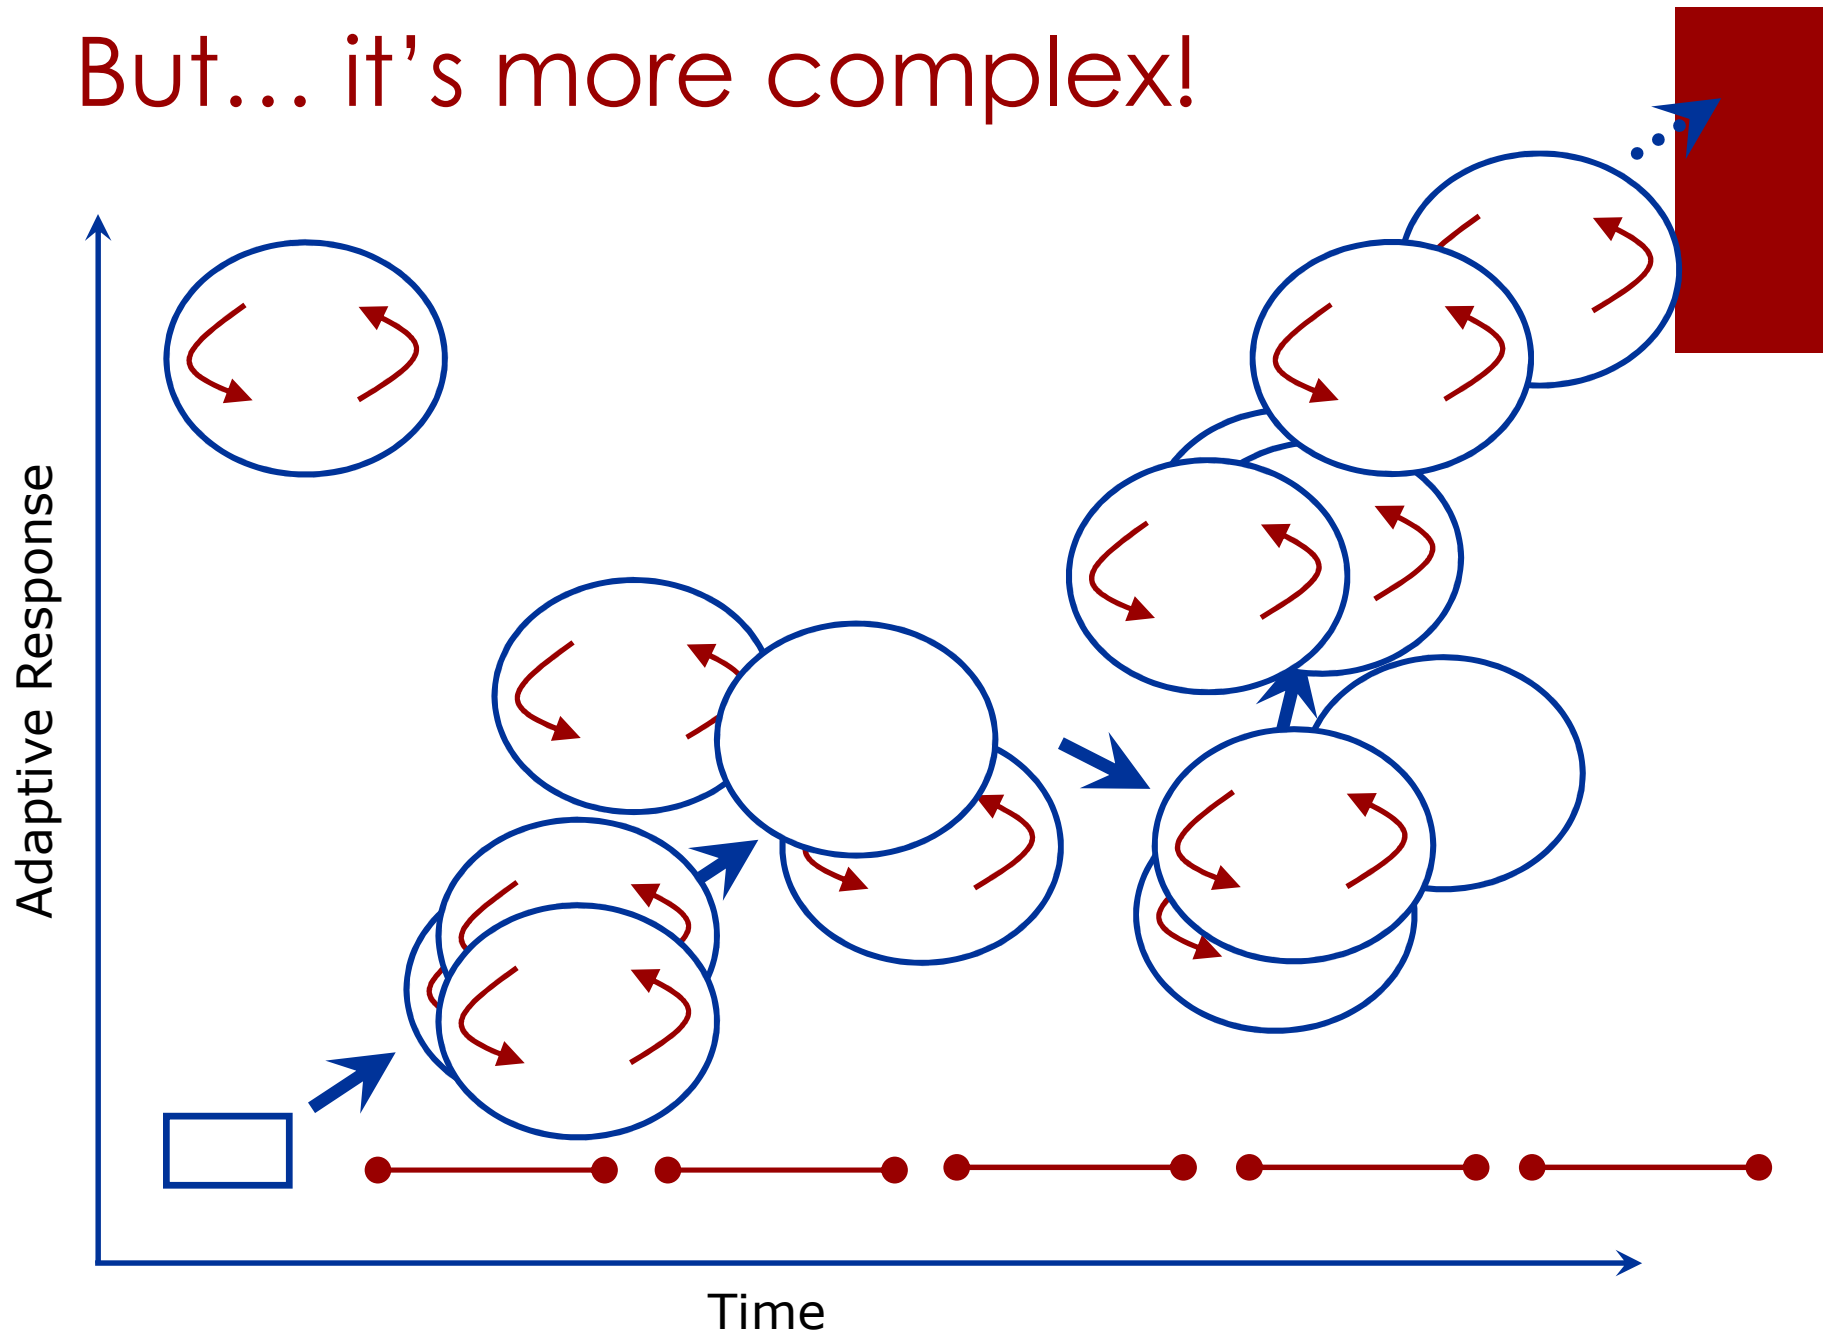

Adaptive Pathways

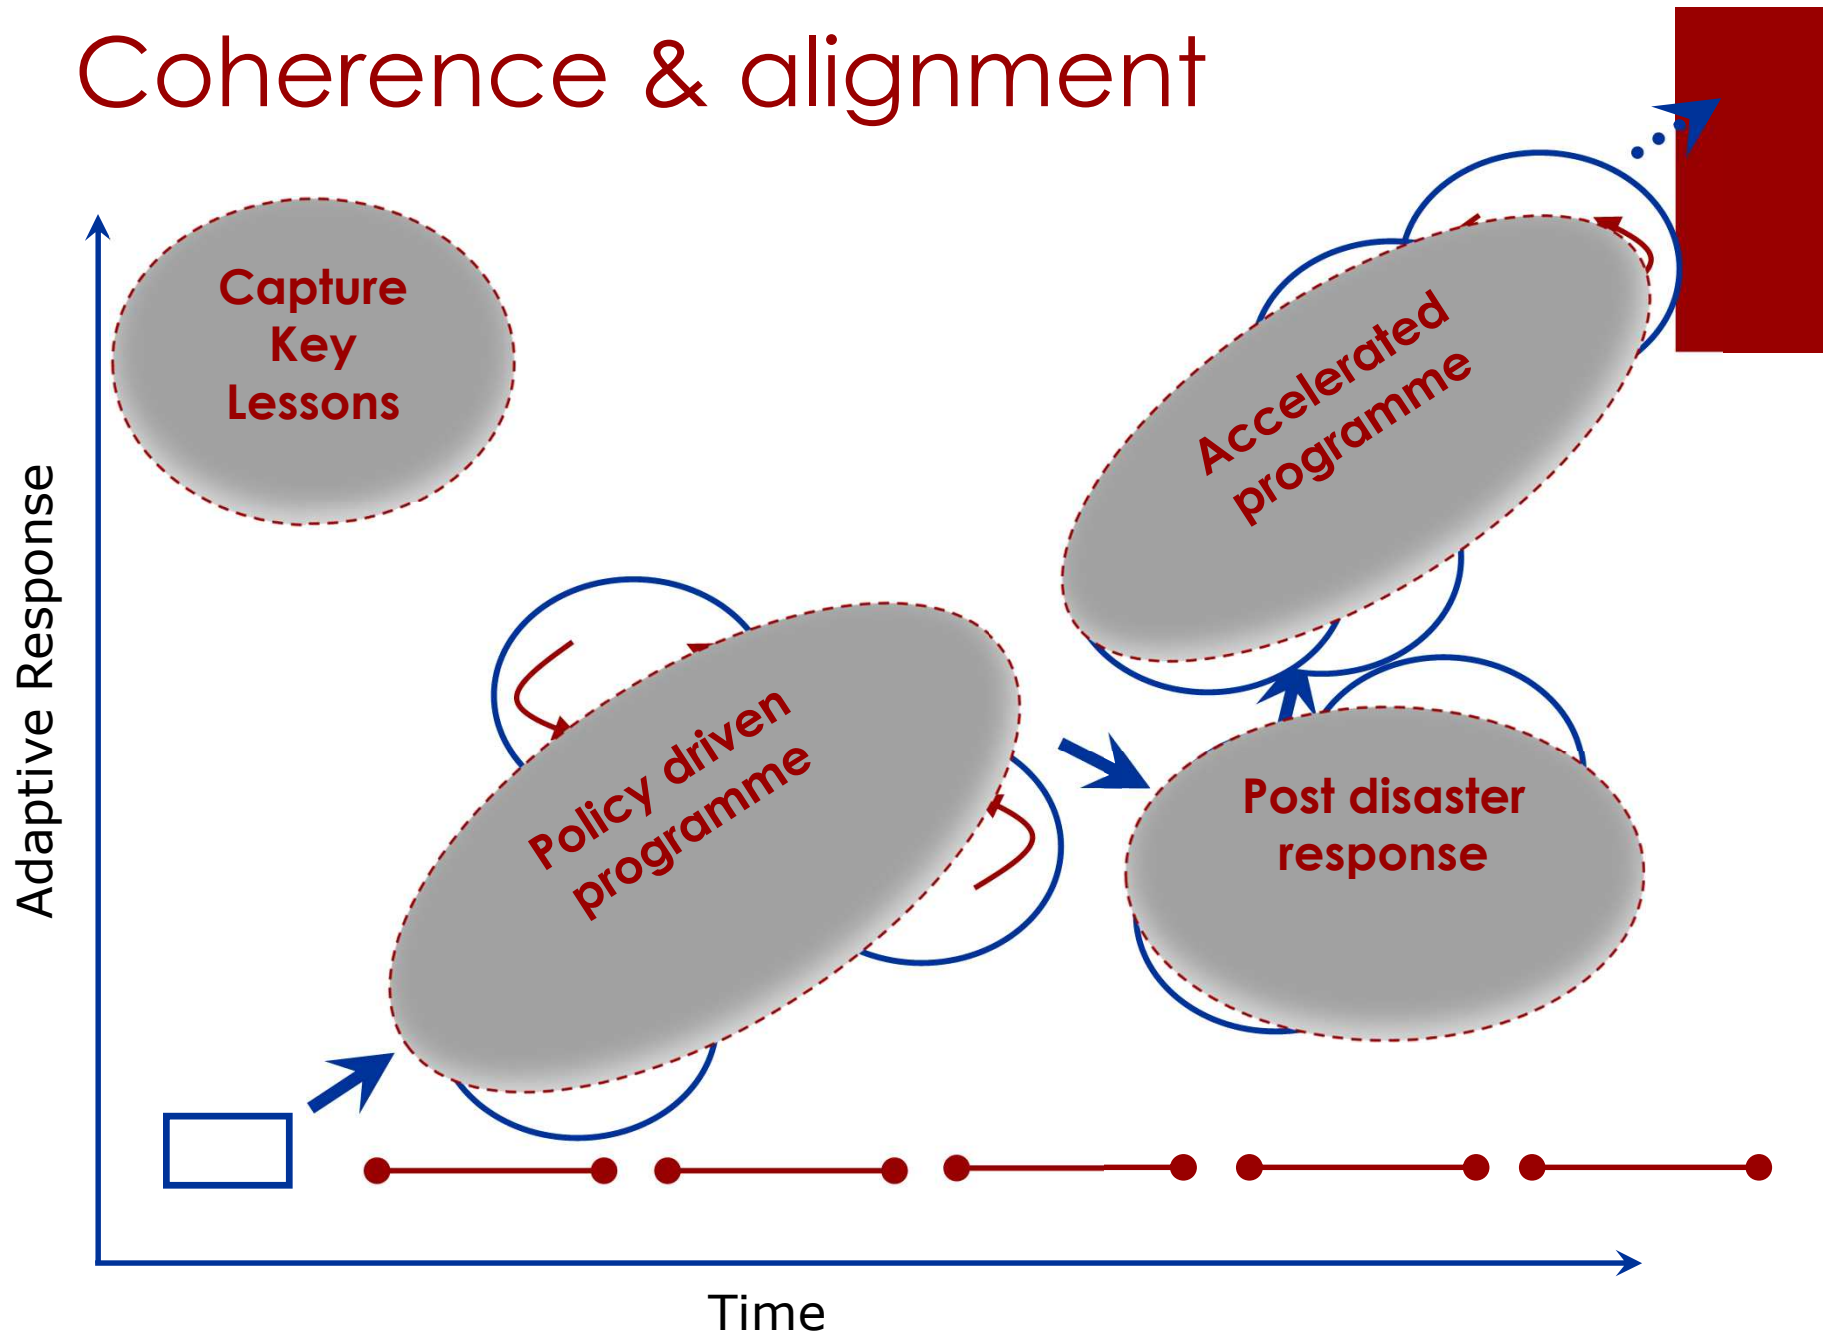

But... it's more complex!
