

Governor of Gorontalo Reviews Johkaso Installation in Jakarta as Part of Plans for Introduction at a Provincial Hospital

Overview

Gorontalo Province faces challenges in the public sanitation sector. In response to a request for support, Ehime Prefecture donated four ambulances to Ainun Habibie Provincial Hospital last year. As part of its Green Hospital Plan, the hospital is considering the introduction of a Johkaso wastewater treatment system by Daiki Axis. The company has an established local subsidiary in Indonesia and a proven track record of implementing Johkaso and other wastewater treatment facilities in Indonesia. On 22 August, Governor Gusnar Ismail and other provincial government officials visited the National Brain Center Hospital in Jakarta to observe a facility where a Daiki Axis Johkaso system has been installed. During discussions following the site visit, the participants confirmed their intention to further examine the feasibility of introducing the system at Ainun Habibie Hospital. Daiki Axis is expected to conduct an on-site assessment as the next step in evaluating the proposed installation.

The ambulance donated by Ehime prefecture

Governor Ismail visited the hospital (RS Pusat Otak Nasional) in Jakarta

The governor, regional officials, the director of Ainun Hospital, the director of the Public Works Bureau, and the director of the Regional Development Planning Bureau participated