

Decontamination and Decreases in Radiation Doses

Decreases in doses of accident-derived radioactive materials

Prepared based on the website, "Environmental Remediation," of the Ministry of the Environment

This is a conceptual figure showing decreases in doses of accident-derived radioactive materials.

Through decontamination work, radiation doses can be reduced faster, assisting the effects of physical attenuation of radioactive materials.

(Related to p.11 of Vol. 1, "Half-lives and Radioactive Decay")

Included in this reference material on March 31, 2014

Updated on January 18, 2016