Welcome to Shinjuku Gyoen National Garden

The present site of Shinjuku Gyoen was originally one part of Edo residence of the Lord Naito, the vassal of levasu Tokugawa. In the Meiji era, it became an agricultural experiment station, and then in 1906 it was made into an imperial garden. After the war in 1949, it was opened to the public as a national garden. The garden contains three styles, Landscape Garden, Formal Garden, and Japanese Traditional Garden, and is considered to be one of the most important modern western style gardens in the Meiji era.

Japanese Traditional Garden

Take a tour to discover historical giant trees

What lies at the center of Landscape Garden is a magnificent tulip tree, which is the symbol of Shinjuku Gyoen. It is one of the first tulip trees planted in Japan during the late 19th century, and thereafter. tulip trees became widespread throughout Japan as a roadside tree. In the garden, there are also many other historical and giant trees which estimated to be more than 100 years old.

Roses in Early Summer

About 500 roses of 100 different species, including the roses which inducted into the Hall of Fame at the World Rose Convention are planted in the rose beds of the Formal Garden. The best seasons are early summer and autumn. Come experience the beautiful fragrant roses!

*The rose events are held at Formal Garden depending on the circumstances. Please check our website.
